

HANDARA HISTORY

Hanu Sulaiman (1956-2002) known as the Father of Golf in Indonesia built Handara Golf & Resort Bali in 1974 to spread his passion for golf to people in Indonesia and to help the local economy. The course is named after his youngest daughter, Handara. The Hanu Father's Senior Open is held at the course every year in memory of Hanu's remarkable legacy.

Handara is one of the oldest golf clubs in Bali that has seen many distinguished patrons and passionate players from around the world. The stunning 18 Hole, Par 72 Golf Course was designed by five times British Open Champion Peter Tomlinson, with his design associates Michael Wolveridge and Ronald Delfino. Handara Golf & Resort is the only course voted Best Golf Course Club in one of the Top 50 Greatest Courses in the World. Visitors can enter the course through the stunning Handara Golf Clubhouse, which is a gateway of flame-of-the-forest trees. The trees are distinguished by their fiery bright orange-red flowers.

The resort site or a higher altitude than most of Bali, is located in the central highlands of Bali, nestled between the rice crater of a dormant volcano at an altitude of about 1400 meters. Coldest 14000 feet above sea level. The year round average temperature is 24 degrees Celsius brings a pleasantly comfortable climate and staying experience like no other.
