The history of granita traces its roots to the island of Sicily, Italy, where it was first created during the Arab rule in the 9th century. Originally known as "sherbet," it was a luxurious treat reserved for the aristocracy. The Arabs introduced the technique of freezing a mixture of fruit juices, sugar, and ice, resulting in a refreshing dessert with a unique texture. Over time, Sicilians adapted the recipe, replacing the fruit juices with local flavors like almond, lemon, and coffee, while keeping the icy, granular consistency intact.
